

We just can't see

Now, as I walk down the same old streets
There are dark shadows everywhere
It's all in flames
But we just can't see
But we just can't see

Some are lost and look around in fear
Or they avert their cold gaze
We're near the end
But we just can't see
But we just can't see

Everything is cast away
And the sky is crumbling down
The dead are walking
But we just can't see
But we just can't see

Arrows point me in all directions walls block me left and right way too many gods
But we just can't see
But we just can't see

I walk slowly, I'm feeling tired
but I know I'm not yet dead
I see a crossroads
But we just can't see
But we just can't see
